

Coaching for Impact

Nonprofit executives are recognizing the value of leadership coaching. The Nonprofit Leadership offers one-on-one and team coaching to executives, and decision makers. Whether you are an experienced nonprofit executive or an leader, coaching can bring a fresh perspective and new energy to what you are doing and where you are going. Your leadership coach will provide a confidential “safe space” for reflection and creating actionable strategies for achieving impact.

A. Brian Leander, the assistant director of the Center, has been a provider of leadership coaching to nonprofit executives. His professional affiliations include the Nonprofit Leadership Association and the Academy of Management. Brian believes that coaching creates opportunities for nonprofit executives to increase their capacity to address personal and organizational challenges. Coaching is a means of fostering awareness, accountability, and action. Coaching results in improved individual and organizational performance.

Your leadership coach will assist you to:

- Gain clarity on your personal mission, vision and impact.
- Develop a support team to assist you to achieve your objectives.
- Set meaningful, proactive, powerful goals rather than leaving the future to chance.
- Navigate the new field of personal and organizational change.
- Break through self-defeating behaviors.
